TRIAL	A trial between Honeywell and Optrex on all issues, beginning as soon after July 13, 2007 as the Court's schedule permits, with each side having 22 hours to present their case.	A 10 day trial shall commence six (6) weeks after the Final Pretrial Conference with each side having 22 hours to present their case, limited to the issues of validity and enforceability of the patent-in-suit. Trial of other issues (including infringement, laches, damages and willfulness) shall be scheduled at a time and in a manner to be determined in the future Concerning Honeywell's proposal that the Customer Defendants "be bound by the infringement and validity determinations of the verdict of the first [manufacturer] phase": The Customer Defendants are currently stayed, did not participate in the preparation of this Proposed Scheduling Order, and are not subject to its provisions. Moreover, it is the Manufacturer Defendants' understanding that the Customer Defendants have not agreed to be bound by a judgment or determination against the Manufacturer Defendants and that the Court rejected this suggestion previously. The Manufacturer Defendants object to including Honeywell's proposed statements about the Customer Defendants and an injunction in the Scheduling Order.	As it remains unclear whether the Manufacturer Defendants will stand in for the accused activities of their customers, Honeywell proposes an initial trial phase beginning on October 22, 2007 and lasting approximately 18 days. Issues to be tried to verdict in this phase include whether modules using the Accused Structure manufactured by the Manufacturer Defendants practice any valid claims of the McCartney '371 patent. Each side would have 45 hours to present their case on these issues. Judgment can then be entered as against the "manufacturer" defendants, at least as to the issues of injunctive relief. The issue of damages, if necessary, will be tried against the "customer" (stayed) defendants in a second phase, following a reasonable period of additional discovery to be determined later. The "customer" defendants will be bound by the infringement and validity determinations of the verdict of the first phase. Judgment will then be entered as against the "customer" defendants.
